Introduction to Agilitas technical training

Agilitas training services provide a flexible, cost-effective and experienced resource for multi-vendor hardware support training. Training investment is usually difficult to justify especially with the commitment required to release employees and the cost of relevant training courses.

To assist with the decision making process and to validate training investment Agilitas devised the 'Introduction to the Data Centre' training day.

This one-day overview or 'taster day' is designed to give attendees an introduction to our hardware support training portfolio in a brief, interesting and informative format.

All of the workshops will cover some theory, some problem solving and a lot of hands-on as we feel this is the best platform for learning ways to resolve real-life system fault scenarios.

Register now to explore and experience the unique learning environment we offer.

Why attend?

- See, first hand, the extensive range of data centre hardware we utilise for our hands-on technical training courses

- Meet our skilled team of Trainers who will not only provide content for the day but be available to answer your questions
- Get a realistic overview of how we build and deliver our training course portfolio

- Discover if Agilitas can deliver savings against your current skills development and training programmes

- Learn about the benefits of sustained investment in skills and how our customers use our training services to extend their support portfolio

Who should attend?

Delegates must be technically proficient but do not need to be experienced in all of the workshop products to attend.

We need to ensure that delegates will be able to have a general understanding of the content, interact with the trainer and therefore get the most out of the day.

The aim is to appraise the training experience without any financial commitment and see whether Agilitas can assist your business with any future training requirements for your field service and help desk personnel.
